POLICY SCREENING FOR PLAGIARISM

European Papers – A Journal on Law and Integration adopts the following “Policy Screening for Plagiarism”.

Before submitting articles to reviewers (see European Papers “Code of Ethics”), those are first checked for plagiarism by a member of the Board of Editors or the Editorial Committee.

Plagiarism is the exposing of another person’s thoughts or words as though they were your own, without permission, credit, or acknowledgment, or because of failing to cite the sources properly. Plagiarism can take different forms, from copying to paraphrasing the work of another. Direct plagiarism is the plagiarism of the text. Mosaic plagiarism is the borrowing of ideas and opinions from an original source and a few verbatim words or phrases without crediting the author.

Authors can adhere to the following steps to report plagiarism:

1. inform the Editors of the Journal where a plagiarized article is published;
2. send original and plagiarized articles with plagiarized part highlighted;
3. Editors of the Journal where the plagiarized article should communicate with the Editor-in-Chief of the journal containing the original article to rectify the matter;
4. the plagiarist should be asked to provide an explanation;
5. in case of non-response, the article should be permanently retracted.

Plagiarism could be detected using Google search engine or one of two following plagiarism checker software: iThenticate or Turnitin.
